PROJECTS

- GeoHunt   Feb 2016
  - Programmed using PHP, NodeJS, SQL, and Python.
  - Chrome Extension to give a personalized apartment-hunting experience.
  - Developed back-end web servers, database, and apartment matching/transaction analysis algorithms.
  - A user registers by allowing us to analyze their transaction history in order to learn what they value.
  - After analysis, user may highlight any address they are interested in learning more about.
  - The location is analyzed and a report is generated for the user.
- Mirror Mirror   Jan 2016 – Present
  - Programmed using C#, PHP, and SQL.
  - Using a 'Smart Mirror' with Kinect, overlay clothing catalog items on to a user and provide recommendations.
  - Developed a collaborative filter recommendation system and back-end for the Smart Mirror (programmed for Microsoft Kinect).
  - Recommendation system takes user inputs (Likes and Dislikes) and creates profile for each user. A similarity index is calculated, and new suggestions are produced in batched responses.
  - Using Kinect joint data, clothing images are displayed on top of a user, which scales with the user's size.
- twiddit   Jan 2016
  - Programmed using Python.
  - Create a personalized 'reddit.com' account based off of a twitter profile.
  - Using a sentiment analysis API, a user's likes and dislikes are discovered from their tweets. Related 'subreddits' are found and subscribed to.
  - 'reddit' account details are sent to the user's twitter profile.
